Drones and Targeted Killings: Ethics, Law, Politics

Sarah Knuckey, Columbia Law School

Description

Drones and Targeted Killings: Ethics, Law, Politics is a unique collection of sources that reveal the dilemmas, concerns, and issues surrounding the use of drone strikes and targeted killings. The anthology was developed with an understanding that readers need to engage this issue using a variety of resources including speeches, congressional testimony, news and scholarly articles, and legal briefs that discuss various sides of the debate. An introductory essay offers background and perspective on the issues. The book contains four sections that address some of the key elements of the debate: Are drone strikes and targeted killings effective? Are they ethical? Are they legal? Is there adequate transparency and government accountability?

ISBN
9781617700996

Publication Date
2014

Publisher
International Debate Education Association

City
New York, NY

Disciplines
Comparative and Foreign Law | Human Rights Law | International Law | Law | National Security Law

Recommended Citation
https://scholarship.law.columbia.edu/books/276