George Price Boyce (1826–1897) was a British watercolour painter of landscapes and vernacular architecture in the Pre-Raphaelite style. He was a patron and friend of Dante Gabriel Rossetti. Originally trained as an architect after meeting David Cox, the watercolour landscape painter, in August 1849, he became a painter. His early work shows the influence of Cox but he went on to develop his own detailed style under the influence of the Pre-Raphaelite painters he grew to know. He met Thomas Seddon and Rossetti in about 1849 and William Holman Hunt and John Everett Millais in 1853. Boyce's diary has become a major source of information on Rossetti and the Pre-Raphaelite Brotherhood. References. External links.

George Price Boyce (1826–1897) was a British watercolour painter of landscapes and vernacular architecture in the Pre-Raphaelite style. He was a patron and friend of Dante Gabriel Rossetti. Boyce exhibited both oils and watercolours at the Royal Academy between 1853 and 1861. He was a founder member of the Hogarth Club. He retired painting in 1893 through ill health. Boyce's diary has become a major source of information on Rossetti and the Pre-Raphaelite Brotherhood. Boyce was the brother of painter Joanna Mary Boyce. GEORGE PRICE BOYCE was the elder brother of the brilliant, and tragic Joanna Boyce, the great woman painter who died in her early thirties with her potential unfulfilled. This remains one of the great losses to English art of the nineteenth century. George Price Boyce was famous British water color painter whose love for landscape paintings and vernacular architecture speaks volumes about his talent. He was born on 24 September 1826 in London in Grays Inn Terrace and was the son of George Boyce, a wine merchant. His sister Joanna Mary Boyce was also... known to be a talented painter. George is also known to be a very good amateur musician, and good oarsman. Nocturne – during trip to Egypt along with a Swedish artist Egron Sillif Lundgren and and the topographical painter Frank Dillon in the winter of 1861-1862. The Nile at Gizeh with the Pyramid of Saqqara on the Horizon. The Great Sphinx of Gizeh. The Edge of the Great Desert, near Gizeh. The Call to Prayer, Gizeh, and. George Price Boyce (24 September 1826 – 9 February 1897) was a British watercolour painter of landscapes and vernacular architecture in the Pre-Raphaelite style. He was a patron and friend of Dante Gabriel Rossetti. This biography is from Wikipedia under an Attribution-ShareAlike Creative Commons License. Spotted a problem? Let us know. Read full Wikipedia entry. Pre-Raphaelite. Artworks.