Recovery as the re-fabrication of everyday life: Exploring the meaning of doing for people recovering from mental illness

Sutton, Daniel

Abstract
The notion of recovery from mental illness has become a significant force in mental health policy, practice and literature. As a process, recovery can be described as the lived experience of personal growth and search for meaning after the onset of mental illness. The following phenomenological... Read more

Keywords
Mental illness; Recovery; Phenomenology; Heidegger; Occupation; Meaningful activity

Date
2008

Item Type
Thesis

Supervisor(s)
Hocking, Clare; Smythe, Liz

Degree Name
Doctor of Philosophy

Publisher
Auckland University of Technology
Hosted by Tuwhera, an initiative of the Auckland University of Technology Library